

Instructions for testing the Ruokie prototype.

The prototype files are in the group wiki, but can also be found on GitHub. The repository can be found at <https://github.com/ArmiOAMK/Ruokie> and a demo can be found at <https://armioamk.github.io/Ruokie/>

When testing the demo, please use Responsive Design Mode in your browser and choose 360x640 as the resolution.

The loading screen is shown for five seconds, after which the user is redirected to the search page.

You can type in ingredients and use the respective buttons to either add or exclude ingredients. There isn't any real search functionality behind this, so you can just continue to the next page.

On the results page, you'll need to swipe the photos left or right; by swiping right, the recipe is added to a list (but not really).

Next page is the list, where there is just one clickable recipe (the link is shown for this purpose; in real life all the recipe names would have a consistent look).

When you get to the recipe page, you can scroll through the recipe.

The main navigation button changes depending on what page you are on, guiding you to the right place.